SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

RADIO FREE EUROPE/RADIO LIBERTY, INC. BROADCAST ARCHIVE

The RFE/RL Broadcast Archive consists of the materials produced by RFE/RL for its radio programs. While the primary elements of this collection are tapes and scripts, arranged by broadcast department or language service, there is also a good deal of derivative and associated documentation created, received or collected in the course of the daily functioning of the broadcasting service. Such documentation includes editorial and research files, program logs and broadcast schedules, special programs, work plans, program lists, listener mail, papers of individual employees, collected or produced in the course of their duties, and other types of documentation.

The most important set of such derivative documents is the Daily Broadcast Analyses (DBAs), which form the DAILY BROADCAST ANALYSIS series. The DBAs were used by management and the broadcasting departments and language services to track the quality and content of programming. A special department, the Broadcasting Analysis Department, existed to collect data on programming and compile it into DBAs, which were then distributed to management and back to the appropriate desks. In the collection, they are arranged according to the category of origin: Radio Free Afghanistan, Radio Free Europe, Radio Free Europe Baltic, Radio Liberty Nationality Services, Radio Liberty Russian Service. The RFE DBAs contain texts of all the services and departments together for each day. DBAs were not issued every day, so the collection contains gaps. A separate category of translated scripts or parts of scripts is also part of the DBA series and listed at its end.

The ALBANIAN MONITORING SUBSECTION series consists of the papers of one of its employees, Nicolo Prenushi. An Albanian Language Service as such existed for a brief period of time in the early 1950s, leaving only the Monitoring Subsection thereafter.

The AZERBAIJANI LANGUAGE SERVICE contains scripts and other materials, primarily collected writings and research files created by the service chief, Mirza Michaeli.

The BULGARIAN, CZECHOSLOVAK, HUNGARIAN, POLISH, ROMANIAN, and SLOVAK broadcast departments and language services contain similar material, arranged by physical form and chronologically thereafter, but it should be cited by date as the box numbers will change.

Many early scripts and programs are available only on microfilm. There is a register for these in a neighboring binder, labeled "Programs on Microfilm," and covering primarily the 1950s.

The NEWS AND CURRENT AFFAIRS series contains the news budget, which includes reports from wire agencies and other sources on events during the Hungarian Revolution of 1956 and Prague Spring of 1968, as well as certain other topics. The series also contains scripts - printed versions of news events and interviews as read by announcers, with sound bites of the event, speech, or interview on audio tapes.
